STATE COMMITTEES.

HISTORY—Mrs. Carrie McC. Patrick, chairman, Anderson. Appointed in 1913, Mrs. Patrick has carried on the work of the Historical Department in a capable manner, being reelected twice.

At her suggestion the following ladies were appointed to serve as her assistants in the four districts:

I. Edisto—Mrs. Norman Bletch, Charleston.

II. Ridge—Mrs. U. R. Brooks, Columbia.

III. Pee Dee—Mrs. D. C. Scott, Kingstree.

IV. Piedmont—Mrs. R. D. Wright, Newberry.

Mrs. Patrick recommends that each chapter have a Year Book, as they not only give the historical programs but make everyone familiar with the subjects to be discussed beforehand.

The best historical papers sent in by the different chapters are bound together and make "The South Carolina Year Book," which is sent to the Historian General for preservation.

A banner is given each year to the Division making the best historical record, and in 1915 South Carolina won second place, Virginia winning by a narrow margin.

This year 1916 South Carolina wins the banner. The result was announced at the General Convention in Dallas after the reports from all the Divisions had been filed, and was immediately wired to Mrs. Patrick by our State President, Mrs. J. L. McWhirter.

EDUCATION—Mrs. Armida Moses, Sumter, chairman.

The members of the S. C. Division, U. D. C., realize their privilege in giving to the descendants of the Confederates those advantages in education that the fortunes of war prevented being their heritage. Most of the chapters contribute to scholarships, and offer prizes and medals, thus encouraging the study of the War Between the States.

Miss Moses is deeply interested in this work of education, and has made a most efficient chairman for several years.

The Division has three scholarships: Winthrop College, valued at $162. S. C. University, valued at $165. Confederate Home College, valued at $100.

Besides there are three District scholarships and there are 12 chapters who contribute to special chapter scholarships.

Surely there is no more important work than lending a hand towards helping a South Carolina Confederate girl equip herself for a self-supporting and useful life.

CHILDREN'S CHAPTERS—Mrs. J. S. Rhame, Charleston, chairman.

This work was under the direction of Miss Frances Pemberton of Greenwood for a number of years, and she was untiring in her efforts in the formation of Children's Chapters, but she was forced to resign at the Aiken Convention, and her mantle fell upon Mrs. J. S. Rhame, who has worn it worthily, giving of her time and strength that the children may be taught the truth of history.

PUBLISHING HONOR ROLLS—Mrs. Agatha A. Woodson, Edgefield.

Mrs. Woodson is enthusiastic and she and her committee have done splendid work in collecting the names of South Carolina soldiers and enrolling them in order that their records may be preserved for posterity. Much has been done by the chapters, but there is vastly more to be done.

South Carolina gave to the service of the South 65,000 soldiers. Of that number only 10,000 have been honored by the Daughters of the Confederacy by having their names placed upon rolls of honor to be preserved in the Confederate Museum in Richmond.

ARLINGTON—Mrs. Thos. W. Keitt, Newberry, chairman.

Mrs. Keitt and her co-workers have labored long and well to complete the fund necessary to liquidate the debt on Arlington monument. Arlington was the home of the Lees—here Robert E. Lee and his wife, Mary Curtis, spent their honeymoon, and here they reared their seven children. During the war this lovely home was used as a hospital and the grounds for a burial ground. At the close of the war it was sold for taxes and bought in by the United States government and used as a national cemetery.

For years only a board with the single word "Rebel" marked the graves of the Confederate soldiers buried there. Now the section is kept in perfect condition, the graves arranged in circles around a central mound and on this mound the Daughters of the Confederacy have erected their monument. Sir Moses Ezekiel designed and executed this memorial and it is a masterpiece of art.

"Since South Carolina was the first State to secede, fired the first gun, and sent more men to the front in proportion to voters than any other State in the Confederacy, it is fitting that she should lead in contributing to the building of the great memorial to the cause that she loved and fought and bled for." Such is the appeal that Mrs. Keitt makes to the Daughters.

SHILOH—Miss Mary Poppenheim, Charleston, chairman.

Miss Poppenheim has proven her ability to work by her enthusiasm and devotion to Shiloh.

This monument, the cornerstone of which has recently been laid, is to mark the battlefield of Shiloh, near Pittsburg Landing on the Tennessee river. There were 10,000 Confederates killed or wounded in this battle; 4,000 Confederate dead were buried in one long trench, and now lie unnamed in mother earth. Should this be so? Can Southern women forget such heroism and leave it unremembered and unmarked? No, indeed. Confederate heroism at Shiloh continues to call for effort to complete the monument that the U. D. C. have undertaken to build.

Miss Poppenheim is also chairman of the Committee on Education of the General Convention; in fact, she is interested in all lines of U. D. C. effort—the cause lies close to her heart.

The members of the S. C. Division appreciate her ability and her loyalty and last year at the Aiken Convention a resolution introduced by Mrs. C. E. Graham of Greenville was heartily endorsed by all present nominating Miss Poppenheim for the next President General in 1917.

Rapid Selling Will Be in Order When these Beautiful Crepe-de-chine Blouses go on Sale Today

Specially Priced for this Occasion at from $3.00 to $5.00

It's an interesting story as to how these Blouses are made and sold—and how such remarkable values are possible; but far more interesting the fact that they are here, and are obtainable at prices that represent such substantial savings. One word of explanation, however, we will offer, and that is that their purchase was arranged for months ago, before the prices of silks had reached their present dizzy heights.

There are several styles, all showing the latest style development—with dainty touches here and there to differentiate them from each other as well from the Blouses that might be found elsewhere. They possess charm, character and distinction, and are all made of rich, lustrous pure silk Crepe-de-chine of an excellent quality.

The allotment is limited, and no more can be obtained to sell at these same low prices
